Berlin: The East Germans are not only extending their efforts to control access of Allied personnel in civilian clothing to East Berlin, but also are now attempting to exercise their authority over Western military police patrols in East Berlin. East German police on 31 October and 1 November stopped US army patrols in East Berlin, detained them for periods of an hour or more, and refused requests to summon a Soviet officer.